NOTE—It is our purpose in presenting this "Roster of the Alumni and Past Cadets" of the University, to give a few of the more important positions held by the men; their highest rank in the National Guard and the military service of the country.

This record is necessarily incomplete and in many cases it was impossible to give the present address of the men, but with the co-operation of our Alumni and friends, we can make this "Roster" practically complete. The Roster of Past Cadets includes the names of the men who have been in attendance two years. We earnestly request that our Alumni and friends read this Roster through carefully and inform the compiler of any change or addition.

A large portion of the data used in compiling this "Roster" was taken from the "History of Norwich University, 1819-98" published in 1898.

A second edition of the history of the University is being compiled, and will be ready for distribution by the commencement of 1908. This history will cover the period from 1866 to date, and will include the sketches of the men left out in the first edition.

It is earnestly hoped, by the compiler, that the Alumni and friends will give the work their support, and that they will assist in obtaining sketches and photographs for the history.

The star (*) before a name indicates the death of the person; the dagger (†), that no information has been received concerning the person; a degree enclosed in a parenthesis as (A. M.) indicates that it was given by an institution other than Norwich University. The graduates of the American, Literary, Scientific and Military Academy, as far as known, are arranged in alphabetical order.

The years following the name of the Past Cadet indicate the attendance at the University.

The following are the principal abbreviations and their explanations:

- A. C.—army corps.
- b.—born.
- bvt.—brevet or brevetted.
- brig. gen.—brigadier general.
- civ. eng.—civil engineer.
- const.—construction.
- cons. eng.—consulting engineer.
- const. eng.—engineer in charge of construction.

BRIEF HISTORY OF NORWICH UNIVERSITY 1819-1907.

With an outline of the work of her Alumni.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY was founded at Norwich, Vt, in 1819 by Captain Alden Partridge, U. S. A., a graduate of Dartmouth College and of the U. S. Military Academy, class of 1806.

Capt. Partridge, while Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy during 1815-1817, became convinced of the great necessity of having Military Science and Tactics taught generally throughout the country, thereby providing a citizen soldiery.

He realized that the attendance at the National Academy would necessarily be limited, so he urged the teaching of Military Science and drill in the public schools and colleges throughout the country. Differences of opinion arising between himself and the military authorities at Washington, as to the management of the U. S. Military Academy, he resigned his commission in the army and determined to found a national military academy which should be an exponent of his ideas of military education.

After careful consideration, he selected Norwich, Vt., his native town, as the site for the institution, and in 1819, began the erection of the buildings, which were completed in 1820, and thrown open for the reception of students.

This institution, known as the AMERICAN LITERARY, SCIENTIFIC AND MILITARY ACADEMY, was the first in this country, and probably in the English speaking world, to include in its curriculum, a complete civil engineering course.

The course of instruction would, to-day, be considered strong, and in connection with the regular work, Capt. Partridge instituted what is now called "the Summer School."

From the first, "the Academy" became very popular. Her halls were filled with students from all sections of the country, especially from the South.

In 1825, acting on the advice of Commodore McDonough of Middletown, Conn., Capt. Partridge determined to move his institution to that city, as the location was thought more central and the usefulness of the academy would be increased. In this year commodious buildings were erected, and the Corps of Cadets were marched to Middletown. The attendance increased and in 1828 it reached about 450 cadets.

In 1828, Capt. Partridge tried to get "the Academy" chartered by the State of Connecticut, but owing to adverse influence, he was unsuccessful, and seeing that he was likely to be unsuccessful for sometime in the future, sold the academy property, in 1829, to the Methodists for their new College, now Wesleyan University, and marched his "corps of cadets" back to Vermont. The old buildings in Vermont, which had been used during the stay in Middletown, as a preparatory school for his "Academy" became again the home of the "A. L. S. and M. Academy".

In 1834 the Academy was chartered by the Vermont Legislature under the name of NORWICH UNIVERSITY. In 1866 the University buildings burned, and the institution was moved to Northfield, Vt., where the citizens had donated ample grounds and had promised the money to erect a new Barracks.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY through her career of eighty-eight years, has furnished her sons to our country, in every battle of any importance from the Seminole War to that of Manila Bay, the taking of Peking, to the quelling of insurrections in Cuba and Panama. In addition a large number of her old cadets, who were disqualified for military duty owing to age or physical disability, acted as drill-masters and instructors in Military Science in the various military camps throughout the country.

During the Civil War over five hundred and twenty-five of her men held commissions. The higher commissions held are as follows: Major-generals, ten; brigadier generals, twelve; surgeon generals, one; Colonels and brevet brigadier generals, fourteen; colonels, forty; lieutenant colonels, thirty-four; majors, twenty-six; captains, one hundred and sixty; admirals, one; rear admirals, four; commodores, six; captains, eight.

The more prominent officers who received their education at "N. U." are: Major-Generals Samuel A. Mower, '34, H. G. Wright, '34, Seth Williams, '40, Robert H. Milroy, '43, Truman Seymour, '44, G. M. Dodge, '50, T. E. G. Ransom '50, Geo. C. Strong '54, Edward Hatch '54; brigadier-generals, George W. Taylor '26, Henry S. Burton '37, F. W. Partridge '32, Jonathan Tarbell, '39, George P. Buel '56, F. W. Lander '41, Peter V. Hagner, E. B. Williston '56, Edmund Rice '59, Charles A. Coolidge '63.

The University was a very popular institution for the early officers in the U. S. Navy. A number of the Midshipmen and Lieutenants obtained leave of absence and studied under Capt. Partridge. Among the Naval Officers who obtained their education wholly or in part at "N. U." may be mentioned, Admiral George Dewey '55, rear-admirals Hiram Paulding '23, Charles S. Boggs '26, Thomas T. Craven '24; Commodores, Josiah Tattal '23 John H. Graham '26, William B. Whiting '26, E. W. Carpenter '23, Charles O. Carpenter '50; Captains, James H. Ward '23, James Glynn '24, Henry J. Hartstene '26, George M. Colvocoresses '32, George A. Converse '63, George P. Colvocoresses '67.

The graduates of Norwich University have taken high rank in the various branches of engineering. In the long list of distinguished engineers may be mentioned the following old cadets:

Edwin F. Johnson '25, Chief Engineer of the Northern Pacific R. R., technical writer and engineer of many important works; Gen. G. M. Dodge, '50, who made thousands of miles of reconnaissance surveys and explorations for the Union Pacific R. R. and as chief engineer constructed this road from Omaha, Neb. to Promontory, Utah. He also holds the world's record for rapid railroad and bridge construction during active military operations in the field; Moncure Robinson, '21, engineer for many southern railroads; Col. Geo. M. Totten '27, Chief Engineer of the Panama R. R. and many South American engineering projects, and an associate with De Lesseps on the Panama Canal; Gen. F. W. Lander, '41, the distinguished civil engineer, explorer and constructor of the first trans-continental wagon road across the Rocky Mountains to California; Edwin McNeill, '46, engineer of many miles of railroad in Pennsylvania; Col. Wm. H. Greenwood, '52, military engineer during the Civil war, chief engineer of many railroads, notably what is now the Denver and Rio Grande R. R. and the famous "swing bridge" in the Royal Gorge, Colo., and the Mexican Central R. R.; Capt. Napoleon Boardman, '47, chief engineer of many railroads in Wisconsin and Michigan; Joseph E. Young '50, prominent railroad contractor and builder of many roads in the middle West; Capt. James E. Ainsworth '53, chief engineer of what is now the Northwestern R. R. from Dubuque, Iowa, to the Hot Springs, S. Dakota; Col. S. W. Shattuck '60, civil engineer and now comptroller of the University of Illinois; Charles Morton '60, a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and a prominent municipal engineer. Capt. Lloyd B. Fuller, '64, a prominent municipal engineer of Chicago, and builder of many miles of railroads; Robert C. Lord, '64, a prominent engineer of Chicago; Edward D. Adams, '64, a "Captain of Industry," of New York City, former chairman of the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific R. R., President of the Cataract Construction Co. of Niagara Falls, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Allis-Chalmers Co., director in many railroad corporations, and Fellow of the American Society of Civil Engineers; Horace C. Henry '64, of Seattle, Washington, a prominent railroad contractor; Samuel T. Wellman, '67, a prominent inventor of furnaces and reduction works, and ex-President of the Wellman-Seaver-Morgan Engineering Co. of Cleveland, Ohio; Capt. Wm. H. Wentworth '68, engineer of many important works in Mexico, chief engineer of the Monterey and Mexican Gulf R. R., and a prominent mining engineer. A large number of the cadets 1819-68 gained distinction in civil engineering and should also be mentioned, but space forbids. A large part of the early railroad work of the country was carried out in whole or in part by Norwich Engineers. The younger men from 1868 to date have gained distinction along engineering lines. They are found holding responsible positions on the great railroads of this and foreign countries, serving as engineers and superintendents for structural and architectural companies. They are found in great mechanical and electrical corporations and companies; they are doing engineering work for the various departments of the U. S. Government; leading exploring parties to the polar regions and the unknown parts of the earth; are holding responsible positions in the engineering offices of the various cities of the country. The above honorable record of the cadets of the University is due chiefly to the instruction within her walls, as only six cadets, as far as known, have ever taken post graduate work in civil engineering in any other institution.

While the chief distinction of the graduates of the University has been gained in military affairs and on Engineering Works, yet her sons have won honorable records in Law, Political Life, Business, Religion, Teaching, Journalism, Literary Work, and Medicine. Among the prominent lawyers may be mentioned William Augustus Beach, '27, well known for his work in the famous Beecher-Tilton case; Luther R. Marsh, '28, a former law partner of Daniel Webster; Philip Phillips '28, the prominent orator and legal writer of South Carolina; Thomas Bragg '28, of North Carolina, Attorney-General for the C. S. A.; Horatio Seymour, '28 of New York and Democratic nominee for President; Luther R. Dixon '48, Justice of the Supreme Court of Wisconsin; William Pitt Kellogg '47, Chief Justice Supreme Court of Nebraska; Gen. Jonathan Tarbell '39, of the Supreme Court of Mississippi; William Little Lee '42, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands; Col. H. O. Kent '54 of Lancaster, N. H.; Arba N. Waterman, '56 of Chicago; B. F. Spaulding '77, Justice of the Supreme Court of North Dakota; N. L. Sheldon '84, of Boston, Mass., and many others of nearly, if not quite, as great legal prominence. A number of the younger alumni are entering this profession and are meeting with success.

In political life, the graduates of the University have met with marked success, due largely to the military training.

A person to succeed in politics, must know how to handle and lead men, and experience has shown that there is no training equal to the military in bringing out and developing those qualities necessary to govern men.

The University was represented in the cabinets of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson by Gideon Willes '26, who held the responsible position of Secretary of the Navy during the trying times of 1861-68. On the southern side, Norwich was represented in the cabinet of Jefferson Davis by Thomas Bragg '28 of North Carolina who served some time as Attorney General of the C. S. A.; the other principal offices held by Norwich men are: Governors of States, eight; lieutenant governors, four; congressmen, sixteen. Of the Governors we will mention Ryland Fletcher '24, of Vermont; Thomas H. Seymour '28 of Connecticut; Horatio Seymour '28 of New York; William Pitt Kellogg '47 of Louisiana; Thomas Bragg '28 of North Carolina; of the lieutenant governors, Henry Wylie Cushman '24, of Massachusetts; Jefferson P. Kidder '24 of Vermont, and later of Dakota Territory; of the Congressmen, Portus Baxter '24 of Vermont; Philip Phillips '26 of South Carolina; Valentine B. Horton '25 of Ohio; Edward Stanley '28 of North Carolina; Henry C. Longnecker, '42, of Pennsylvania; Asa W. H. Clapp '24 of Maine; Henry Van Rensselaer '26; Gen. G. M. Dodge '50 of Iowa and B. F. Spaulding '77 of North Dakota.

Several of the graduates have gone to the various foreign governments as ambassadors and consuls. A large number of the graduates have served in the two branches of the various state legislatures and have held many minor state and government offices.

Among the large number of old cadets successful in business are Asa W. H. Clapp '24, Portland, Me.; Valentine B. Horton '25, Pomeroy, Ohio; Junius Spencer Morgan '26, the multi-millionaire banker of London, England; Norman Page Gignalliat '27, extensive planter and slave owner in South Carolina and Mississippi; Thomas R. Trowbridge '27, ship owner and merchant, New Haven, Conn.; Richard D. Smith, '28, extensive planter, Cuba; Thomas A. Cameron '28, planter and millionaire business man, North Carolina; Henry G. Hubbard '28, extensive manufacturer, Middletown, Conn.; Benjamin Poole, '38, street railway magnate, Mass.; Charles A. Silver '41, extensive real estate owner, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Daniel Thompson '42, wealthy planter and owner of the "Calumet Plantation," Louisiana; William Pitt Kellogg '47, extensive planter, Louisiana; Charles E. Tilton '48, railroad magnate and ship owner, Tilton, N. H.; Gen. G. M. Dodge '50, railroad and real estate owner, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Ephraim Morris '51, manufacturer, Vermont; William S. Dewey '63, manufacturer, Quechee, Vt.; Edward D. Adams '64, financier, New York City; Horace C. Henry '64, wealthy railroad contractor and banker, Seattle, Wash.; John J. Dewey '65, manufacturer, Quechee, Vt.; Charles Marsailles '68, of Exeter, N. H.; Henry J. M. Howe, '69, banker, Marshalltown, Iowa; Waldo P. Clement '72, broker and business man, New York City; George W. Metcalf '73, ranchman, Wyoming; Frank J. Saxe, '74, lumber manufacturer New York City; Frank C. Hatch '76, hotel manager and contractor, New York City; Gen. E. M. Carr, '79, promoter, Seattle, Wash.; Edward McC. Peters '81, manufacturer, Brooklyn, N. Y.; H. I. Bettis '81 of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake R. R., Los Angeles, Cal.; J. M. Holland, '83, broker and business man, New York City.

Over fifty of the graduates and past cadets of the University have gained distinction in the ministry. Of this number and the church denominations in which they entered, we will mention the following: Universalist, Orestes A. Brownson '24, Alonzo Ames Miner '32, pastor of churches in New Hampshire and Massachuetts, Cyrus H. Fay '36, pastor of churches in Brooklyn, New York, many years, John Harvey Moore '38, Warren, Mass., Orlando D. Miller '45, James W. Putnam '46, Danvers, Mass., Sullivan H. Mc Colléster '51, Marlboro, N. H., Thomas Gorham '55, pastor of church in Ohio and New Hampshire, William S. Burton '55, Walter Dole '70, Northfield, Vt., Alfred F. Booth '91, St. Albans; the Episcopal ministry, Paul H. Trapier '26, Baltimore, Maryland, Stephen H. Elliot '28, Bishop of Georgia, Richard Johnson '29, Chaplain of the Hampton's Legion, C. S. A., and known as the "fighting chaplain," Daniel S. C. M. Potter '45, churches in Arkansas, Rev. William R. Huntington '56, Grace Church, New York City, Arthur Lawrence '58, 1st Lieutenant Massachusetts Volunteers, Civil War, Mass., Rev. E. L. Stoddard '65, Jersey City, N. J., Walter Delafield '59, Chicago, Howard F. Hill '67, Concord, N. H., Fred F. Sherman '78, Chaplain U. S. N.; The Congregational Church, John Holbrook '24, one of the founders of the Chicago Theological Seminary, Stockton, California, Frederick A. Barton '26, Chaplain 10th Mass. Volunteers, Springfield, Mass., James H. Tyng '27, Chaplain U. S. N.; Rev. Samuel H. Green '65, is pastor of the Calvary Church in Washington, D. C.; Rev. Elisha Adams '32, one of the founders of Tilton Seminary, was pastor of churches in New Hampshire and Massachusetts; John Robertson '65, a native of Charlestown, N. H., became a Jesuit Priest and died while doing missionary work in the West Indies.

Over one hundred of the cadets have engaged in teaching. A number of the men have founded military schools throughout the country, especially in the South. Of the number of cadets who have taught, we will mention James Harman Ward '23, U. S. N., professor at the U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY, John Holbrook '24, founder of military schools, president of Jefferson College, Miss., Col. Truman B. Ransom '25, founder of military schools and president of the University; Albert W. Dunbar '25, founder of military schools, John Fries Fraser '26, Vice-provost of the University of Pennsylvania, Alonzo Ames Miner '32, president of Tufts College, Joseph Bartlett Bourleigh '33, founder of Colleges in Maryland, General Alonzo Jackman '36, a noted mathematician and professor of Mathematics and Engineering, many years at the University, Col. Samuel Marsh '39, in Normal School in New York, William Livingstone '39, Prof. Mathematics Lombard University, Ill., Andrew Jackson Dorn '41 and James Van Allen Shields '41, joint founders of the first military school west of the Allegheny Mountains, in St. Louis. Mo., Nathan Burnham Webster '43 founder of military schools in the South, Paul Raymond Kendall '47, founder and president of Lombard University, John V. N. Standish '47, president Lombard University, Major William W. Benjamin '49, founder Mt. Pleasant Military Academy, New York, Rev. S. H. McCollister '51, president Westbrook Seminary, Maine and Buchtell College, Ohio. Col. S. W.

Shattuck '60, professor of mathematics and now comptroller of University of Illinois, Capt. Charles A. Curtis, U. S. A., '61, president of the University, Commandant of the University of Wisconsin, Col. H. P. Davidson '67, founder of and president of Highland Park Military Academy, Chicago, Adrian Scott '71, prof. languages Brown University and Norwich University, William M. Rumbaugh '76, professor and commandant of the University, Charles H. Spooner '78 president of the University, John B. Johnson '79, professor of mathematics and civil engineering at the University, and at the University of Southern California, Malverd A. Howe '82, professor of civil engineering, Rose Polytechnic Institute, Ind., Calvert K. Mellen '84 principal of school, Buffalo, New York, Herman H. Dressel, Jr., '89, Superintendent of Schools, Great Barrington, Mass., Prof. E. A. Shaw, '91, professor of mathematics at the University, Charles S. Carleton '96, prof. civil engineering and field work at the University, Charles A. Plumley '96, principal of schools, Arthur E. Winslow '98, prof. civil engineering at the University.

Over fifty of the cadets have engaged in Journalism. Of this number we will mention but a few; John Jay Hyde '27, editor New York World, Gen. W. W. H. Davis '42, Doylestown, Pa., Col. E. A. Kimball, editor Spirit of the Age, Vermont Patriot, Gideon Willes '26, editor Hartford Times, Thomas H. Seymour '29, editor Jeffersonian. Col. O. E. Learnard '55, Lawrence, Kansas, Col. W. A. Treadwell '57, military editor New York Press, Thomas J. Lasier '64, Claremont, N. H., Charles Marsailles '68, editor many papers, News Letter, N. H., Daily Fireman and Weekly Journal, Kingston, N. Y., E. D. Upham, '75, Randolph, Vt., George D. Thomas '76, real estate editor Boston Herald, Harry C. Dole '77, West Jersey Press, Camden, N. J., George R. Miner '83, editor on many papers, now Sunday editor New York Herald; L. B. Johnson '88, Randolph Herald, Charles W. Pierce '92, Bennington Banner and Northampton Daily Herald, Paul R. Dinsmoor, '98, Lawrence, Kansas.

Several Norwich men have held important library positions, J. H. T. Magruder '28, was State Librarian of Maryland, and Orrin Marsh '32 was the first State Librarian of Michigan; William R. Cutter '68, is Librarian of the Woburn, Mass., Public Library.

Fully one hundred of the cadets have engaged in literary work. We will mention the following: Ralph L. North '28, author of law books, Natchez, Miss., Frederick A. Porcher '27, a writer on South Carolina History, and one of the founders of the South Carolina Historical Society; Bernard Shipp '27, a distinguished writer on the early explorations in the South and on archaeological subjects; Orlando D. Miller, '45, the noted Oriental scholar, and archaeological writer; Gen. W. W. H. Davis '42, author of several historical works; Lt. George H. Derby (John Phoenix) U. S. A. '42, the far famed humorist and author of "Phœnixiana" and "Squibob Papers;" Rev. S. H. McCollister '51, author of many works on travels; Capt. Chas. A. Curtis '61, author of many works of fiction; Theodore H. Kellogg '62, author of medical works; Maj. H. E. Alvord '63, author of many agricultural works; Prof. J. V. N. Standish '47, author of many articles on travel.

Fully one hundred and fifty of the men have entered the profession of medicine and surgery. Of this number several have gained distinction. We will mention the following: Edward Elisha Phelps '24, professor of medicine and surgery at the Dartmouth Medical College, and at the University of Vermont Medical College and surgeon, Vt. Vols., Civil war; David M. Wright '28, North Carolina; Mitchell M. Davis '39, Baraboo, Wis.; Sylvester M. Hewett '40, major and surgeon Ohio Vols.; Samuel H. Currier '52, surgeon Vt. Vols.; George P. Greeley '53, Nashua, N. H.; J. Q. A. McCollister, surgeon, Mass. Vols., Waltham, Mass.; George P. Conn '65, surgeon Vt. Vols., and professor Dartmouth Medical College; Gen. J. H. Baxter '56, surgeon General U. S. A.; Joseph Steadman '59, Col. Mass. Vols., Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Henry A. Robbins '60, surgeon U. S. Vols., Washington, D. C.; Theodore H. Kellogg '62, Lt. U. S. Vols., specialist on mental diseases, Riverdale, N. Y.; Clarence L. Hathaway '69, Winthrop, Mass.; Waldo H. Richardson '76, New York City; Fred E. Steele '81, Montpelier, Vt.; Fred R. Belknap '85, Benton Harbor, Michigan; Myron L. Chandler '85, Barre, Vt.; Robert L. Irish '89, New York City; J. H. Judkins '92, Northfield; B. W. Gleason '92, Boston; E. A. Pond '92, government service, Philippine Islands.

A number of the men have taken high rank in Dentistry, Chemistry and Pharmacy.

Several of the men have entered the U. S. Weather Bureau service, of the number we will mention: Maj. H. B. Hersey '86, professor in the service, and now second in charge of the Walter Wellman Expedition to the North Pole; William A. Shaw, '88, weather forecaster and professor of meteorology at the University.

Through loss of records it is impossible to obtain all the names of the old cadets, and it is hoped that our alumni and friends will assist us in completing the records.

It will be seen by the preceding article that the record of the University is an honorable one.

Very little is known concerning fully five hundred of our men. If the record of these men was known no doubt many names would be added to the "Roll of Honor" and to the long list of men who have gained distinction in the various professions.

PARTIAL ROSTER OF THE CADETS A. L. S. AND M. ACADEMY
AND NORWICH UNIVERSITY 1819—70.

Very few facts are known concerning the cadets given in the following "Roster." This list is printed with the desire that our alumni, past cadets, and friends, will assist us in obtaining complete sketches of these old cadets for the second volume of the History of Norwich University, which is being compiled, and will be issued in 1908.

It will be noticed that a large number of these old cadets came from the South, and we would especially ask the co-operation of the historians, genealogists and librarians of the Southern States in obtaining the desired data.
